PETER REHWINKEL

Founder and Director for IDCM

International Disaster and Crisis Management.

Groningen Mayor (2009-2013).

IDCM is led by Peter Rehwinkel, a former Netherlands Member of Parliament and Mayor of major Netherlands cities. His experience will help to offer your organization a stronger future.

Peter Rehwinkel has led several national and international teams in disaster response and recovery. He was a 'rapporteur' for the United Cities and Local Governments Organisation (UCLG) and developed high-level relationships with World Bank, various United Nations agencies, the European Commission and crisis assistance such as USAID, the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC). During his time as Mayor, Peter Rehwinkel took executive crisis response responsibility in a number of challenging crisis events.

Experience makes another future, Dr. Peter Rehwinkel's conviction was. He wants to contribute to a better and quicker reply, after a hazard has taken place. Recognize how fast your reputation and that of your organization or company can be destroyed. Be a professional. Develop your competences on disaster response according to your responsibilities.

IDCM recognizes that for many CEO's crisis management is not a core skill or priority. However, when disaster strikes, your organisation will firstly look to you to lead the response.

We also provide or access great courses and specific training to develop crisis management competencies so you can carry out your responsibilities calmly, professionally and effectively when a crisis hits.

Dr. Rehwinkel delivers a fascinating speech on crisis management and provides essential tips. Corporate sector, governments and organizations have shown keen interest already in the Golden Rules Peter Rehwinkel provides to fight crisis. Peter makes use of stories to remember, incorporates humor in his speeches and complements words with visual aids. He is also a sought after speaker on government law and royalty.
